The presentation will give a detailed overview of the topic. Only books, journals, and .gov websites can be used for the research. You may use a .gov website to gather stats. Pictures for the PowerPoints are allowed to be posted from the internet, but they must be cited. A rubric will be supplied with the guidelines and grading rubric for the project.

POLICY STATEMENTS

READINGS

Students are expected to have all chapters read prior to the class starting the topics. It is important to remember this is COLLEGE and expecting to be taught the book rather than reading it is not college level behavior. Lectures are supplemental to the book and will cover aspects not in the book. Students are responsible for any information in the book.

ELECTRONICS

NO ELECTRONIC DEVICES ARE ALLOWED IN THE CLASS. No recording of lectures, use of computers, cell phones, etc. All notes should be taken on paper. Electronics are distracting in class and this class relies heavily on lectures, so attention paying attention is vital to success. Lectures are recorded and will be opened on Blackboard for review prior to the exams.

*Cell phones must be turned off at all times!****

SUBMITTING YOUR PAPERS

 Submit papers accessed by the link "View/Complete Assignment," at the bottom of the assignment. Follow the directions for attaching your paper. When you are ready to submit your work, you must click the "submit" button. Be careful that you do not click on "submit" until you're ready for your paper to be sent. This is an irrevocable step: once you have clicked "submit" you cannot get back the submission.

1. First, click on the "View/Complete"
2. Browse and Upload the assignment in WORD .doc, or .docx NO GOOGLE DOCS ARE ALLOWED!!
3. Look at what it uploaded. If it is the right assignment, click SUBMIT
4. You will be shown and emailed a digital receipt for all submissions. You must hold onto these.
5. Print the digital receipt or make a screen copy!
6. Save that document as if any technical issues do arise, that will have the tracking information
7. Students are responsible for checking this. If it is not given, submit again to be sure.

NEXT:

1. Then, also check to ensure that the assignment was received by looking at “My Grades”.
 2. An exclamation mark means you have submitted the assignment and it is waiting to be graded.

LATE WORK POLICY

This is a professional classroom; therefore, everyone will be treated like responsible adults with the capability of meeting deadlines. Each module requires 18 hours of class time for regular activities as stated in the course catalog. That means, students have 168 hours to complete 18 hours of class time work. Students must plan ahead as this is plenty of time to complete the course work.

However, it is understood that sometimes things happen. Therefore, late work is based on a case-by-case evaluation. It is very important to stay in touch with the professor and discuss issues the moment they arise. This means back and forth conversation is required prior to the due date. If the request becomes a pattern, the professor the privilege will be lost (i.e. do not wait till the day assignments are due to start them). This is for legitimate issues only; procrastination is not a reason to ask for more time.

To qualify to be allowed to submit late work, prior to the deadline, students must:

- 1) Contact the teacher via email or text message to discuss the reason more time is needed
- 2) Agree upon a new due date that the work would be submitted by which must be approved prior to 7pm on Sunday night
- 3) Students cannot start the new module until the late assignments are submitted. If the student does, the late assignment will be a zero

If these steps are not taken, the assignment will be a zero once the deadline has passed.

No assignments will be accepted late for the last module.

ACADEMIC HONESTY

Because engaging in dishonest practices undermines the trust that is essential in any social relationship, honesty is expected in all matters. Academic honesty requires that you never submit another's work as your own. You will not plagiarize from a printed source, an electronic source, or another student's work, nor will you have someone else do your work.

You are plagiarizing if you:

- Submit someone else's work as your own.
- Buy a paper from a papermill, website or other source.
- Copy sentences, phrases, paragraphs, or ideas from someone else's work, published or unpublished, without giving the original author credit. (put in quotation marks and cited to the quote's exact location)
- Replace select words from a passage without giving the original author credit. (changing a few words does not make it your idea)
- Copy any type of multimedia (graphics, audio, video, internet streams), computer programs, music compositions, graphs, or charts from someone else's work without giving the original author credit.
- Piece together phrases, ideas, and sentences from a variety of sources to write an essay.
- Build on someone else's idea or phrase to write your paper without giving the original author credit.
- Submit your own paper in more than one course.

See how to properly paraphrase, quote and cite sources at OWL Purdue Writing Lab. Any plagiarism (even 1 sentence) will result in a zero on the assignment and submitted for academic dishonesty. The second offense in the course and the student will automatically fail the course and could face expulsion. More information about plagiarism is in the Getting Started Folder.

IMPORTANT PRACTICES

Make the following part of your routine.

- Review the Blackboard manuals on the tools. Don't wait until an assignment is due before you refresh your memory on how to use these tools. "Blackboard@ Edison"(see Bb STUDENT HELP) contains helpful FAQs and tutorials you may want to check before you ask for help. The Blackboard "User Manual" is available in the TOOLS section of the course.
- Check your Edison e-mail account frequently for communications about this course. Once a day, Monday through Friday, is not too often.
- Time management is crucial. Establish a regular schedule with sufficient time allocated to the study of sociology and adhere to it.
- "Once over" is inadequate for mastering the content and skills of sociology. Review frequently. Plan to spend six hours a week outside of class to start and adjust up or down as needed.

MISCONCEPTIONS

- Distance-learning courses are easy.

Distance-learning courses are different from traditional courses, but not easier. Distance-learning courses "will have the same quality and academic integrity as traditional on-campus courses conducted in the classroom." In fact, distance-learning courses require a special discipline and persistence and perhaps greater self-reliance than traditional classroom courses. The work load is no less, and may be more, since you have to make up for the three hours you will not spend in direct instruction in a classroom. The time required varies depending on the type of assignments you have in a given week and—this is important!—varies with your reading speed and comprehension and your writing and typing skills. For each module, start with a schedule that allows eighteen hours a week for this course. You can adjust up or down as you gain familiarity with the requirements of the course.

- In distance-learning courses the work is self-paced.

Although you will not meet in a classroom twice a week, this course is no more self-paced than a traditional class. You have assignments to read and write; there are quizzes and exams to take: this work has to be completed within a specific time. Assignments will be posted for several weeks rather than just one. Procrastination is not a good idea.

- The distance-learning course, the Internet, and e-mail are available twenty-four hours a day: my instructor must be available, too.

Your instructor is here to help you, but not twenty-four hours a day, every day. Your instructor has other responsibilities and has a life. See the section on communication for information about getting in touch with your instructor. Plan your work so that there is adequate time for communication when you need help. There is no distance-learning EMS. Students need to respect that the world does not revolve around them and that if they wait till the day an assignment is due and have issues, the professor may not respond to the email. The response time of an online class is 48 hours. Your instructor will try to answer emails as soon as possible; however, it could be the next day. Ask all questions by Thursday night to allow for the response time.

Remember, you would be furious if an instructor emailed you and told you that you had to respond to an email right away or else you would be penalized. You wouldn't want professors to think that your life revolved around your email. Apply the same concept to the instructors.

NETIQUETTE

In our virtual classroom, you will communicate with your classmates and instructor using e-mail. Your online conduct is referred to as "netiquette."

- Be courteous and respectful of your colleagues.
- Rude, abusive, or profane language can have consequences for your continuing in the course.
- FOR EMAILS: Think before you write. Unlike a traditional class where we can see and speak to each other, an online course does not allow us to use nonverbal cues (facial expressions, tone of voice, gestures). Remarks that might be humorous when spoken can easily be misconstrued when written. Choose your words with care to lessen the chance that you will be misunderstood or misinterpreted.
- Do not write messages in all capital letters. This is considered SHOUTING.
