Grading Criteria

Points	Grade
90 – 100%	A
80 – 89.9 %	B
70 – 79.9%	C
60 – 69.9%	D
Below 60%	F

Submission Requirements: It is expected that all written assignments will be properly formatted. This means: a Word document with margins, double spacing, 12 – point font, and proper citation (if necessary). These assignments are graded based not only on familiarity with the text, but also on the successful development of an idea (if you are making a claim), or a detailed examination (if you are asking a question).

What do I need to do to pass this class? Success in Ethics requires focus, discipline, patience & practice. Students who do well in this course do all of the required reading, and ask for help when they get stuck.

Keep up with the work!

Edison Community College Policies

It is the students' responsibility to be informed of Edison's policies and procedures. Students with diagnosed learning challenges are encouraged to notify the instructor in order to accommodate an appropriate means of meeting class requirements.

TECHNICAL SUPPORT

Edison Community College has an IT Helpdesk that is available Monday through Thursday. The hours of operation are:

Mon - Thurs 8:00 - 8:00

Friday 8:00 - 4:00

Saturday 10:00 - 2:00

Sunday

(Closed)

You can reach the Helpdesk by calling 778-8600 and ask for extension 711 or email

Helpdesk@edisonohio.edu.

For a problem with Blackboard, there is a form you can use on the Edison website (<http://www.edisonohio.edu/blackboard/BlackboardHelpForm.htm>). Please include all details regarding what happened. In addition, please provide your operating system, browser and version you were using, and type of Internet connection.

Plagiarism

PLAGIARISM IS CHEATING AND WILL NOT BE TOLERATED. Plagiarism is the stealing of intellectual property. Plagiarism is the use or imitation of another person's work without proper acknowledgment. Plagiarism may be intentional or unintentional, but the penalties are the same.

Penalties for plagiarism include, but are not limited to: a failing grade for the assignment, a failing grade for the course, and expulsion.

Plagiarism can include (but is not limited to):

- Buying, stealing, or borrowing a paper (including material of the Web).
- Hiring someone to write your paper.
- Copying large sections of text from a source without proper citation.
- Using almost exact wording from a source when paraphrasing.
- Building upon someone else's ideas without citing.

Always give credit for ideas which are not your own:

Words or ideas presented in a book, newspaper, magazine, Web page, or any other medium.

Information you gain through interviewing or conversing with another person, face to face, over the phone, or in writing.

When you copy the exact words or a unique phrase.

When you paraphrase (put the same idea into your own words).

When you reprint any diagrams, illustrations, charts, pictures, or other visual materials.

How Grades Will Be Determined on Written Assignments

In order to receive any given grade, the assignment must meet all criteria for that grade level

Elements of an "A" paper	Little to no typographical errors No grammatical errors Correct usage of MLA format, if applicable Clearly delineated intro, body, and conclusion Well-structured and supported argument Argument answers the question asked Argument demonstrates comprehension, critical thought, application, and self-reflection Paper meets length requirements
Elements of a "B" paper	Few to no typographical errors

	Few to no grammatical errors Mostly correct usage of MLA format Clearly delineated intro, body, and conclusion Few minor errors which would undermine argument Argument answers the question asked Argument demonstrates comprehension Paper meets length requirements

Elements of a "C" paper	Few to moderate typographical errors Few grammatical errors Incorrect usage of MLA format Unclear organizational structure Several errors which affect the argument Argument does not answer the question asked Argument does not demonstrate comprehension Paper does not meet length requirements
Elements of a "D" paper	Many to moderate typographical errors Many to moderate grammatical errors Incorrect usage of MLA format Poor organizational structure Poorly constructed argument with little to no evidence or support Argument does not answer the question asked Argument does not demonstrate comprehension Paper does not meet length requirements
Elements of an "F" paper	Many typographical errors Many grammatical errors Incorrect usage of MLA format Poor organizational structure Poorly constructed argument Argument does not answer the question asked Argument does not demonstrate comprehension Paper does not meet length requirements

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

MISCONCEPTIONS

- Distance-learning courses are easy.

Distance-learning courses are different from traditional courses, but not easier. It is the policy of ECC that distance-learning courses "will have the same quality and academic integrity as traditional on-campus courses conducted in the classroom." In fact, distance-learning courses require a special discipline and persistence and perhaps greater self-reliance than traditional classroom courses. The work load is no less, and may be more, since you have to make up for the three hours you will not spend in direct instruction in a classroom. The time required varies depending on the type of assignments you have in a given week and—this is important!—varies with your reading speed and comprehension and your writing and typing skills. Start with a schedule that allows nine hours a week for this course. You can adjust up or down as you gain familiarity with the requirements of the course.

- Distance-learning courses are like independent study, and I'll be working alone.

In this class you are part of a group, each member of which is pursuing the objectives of the course and who will interact with the instructor and with each other. You will participate in discussions with your classmates via a discussion board, and, unlike in many traditional classes, you cannot hide in the back of the room. Participation in discussions is required.

- In distance-learning courses the work is self-paced.

Although you will not meet in a classroom twice a week, this course is no more self-paced than a traditional class. You have assignments to read and write; there are quizzes and exams to take: this work has to be completed within a specific time. You will participate in discussions with your classmates via a discussion board, and you will do so by specific deadlines. Many assignments will be posted for several weeks rather than just one. I understand how complicated lives can be, so I will try to work with you and give you more notice of what's going on to allow you to work up to 2 weeks ahead in case something is going on. Be forewarned though, no late work of any kind will be accepted in this class since you will be given more than enough time. Procrastination is not a good idea.

- The distance-learning course, the Internet, and e-mail are available twenty-four hours a day: my instructor must be available, too.

Your instructor is here to help you, but not twenty-four hours a day, every day. Your instructor has other responsibilities and has a life. See the section on communication for information about getting in touch with your instructor. Plan your work so that there is adequate time for communication when you need help. There is no distance-learning EMS.

IMPORTANT PRACTICES

Make this part of your routine.

- Review the Blackboard manuals on the tools. Don't wait until an assignment is due before you refresh your memory on how to use these tools. "Blackboard @ Edison" (see Bb STUDENT HELP) contains helpful FAQs and tutorials you may want to check before you ask for help. The Blackboard "User Manual" is available in the TOOLS section of the course.
- Check your Edison e-mail account frequently for communications about this course. Once a day, Monday through Friday, is not too often.
- Check the DISCUSSION BOARD frequently for your colleagues' contributions. Read them thoughtfully. Reply to all who ask you a question about your posts. Develop a discussion on themes you find important.
- Time management is crucial. Establish a regular schedule with sufficient time allocated to the study of history and adhere to it.
- "Once over" is inadequate for mastering the content and skills of history. Review frequently. Plan to spend nine hours a week to start and adjust up or down as needed. I have written a guidebook to helping you pass a history class, which is located under "Course Documents"

NETIQUETTE

In our virtual classroom, you will communicate with your classmates and instructor using e-mail and discussion board. Your online conduct is referred to as “netiquette.”

- Be courteous and respectful of your colleagues. You do not have to agree with everything they post: as a critical thinker, you will consider claims carefully and will be prepared to challenge, correct, argue with those that you think are incorrect, incomplete, or inadequately supported. But disagree without being disagreeable. Always base your positions on evidence and logic and avoid personal attacks.

- Rude, abusive, or profane language will disqualify your submissions for that assignment and can have consequences for your continuing in the course.
- Respect the fact that the forum is a closed discussion; do not forward mail or forum posts to people outside the group without the author's permission.
- Think before you write. Unlike a traditional class where we can see and speak to each other, an online course does not allow us to use nonverbal cues (facial expressions, tone of voice, gestures). Remarks that might be humorous when spoken can easily be misconstrued when written. Choose your words with care to lessen the chance that you will be misunderstood or misinterpreted.
- Keep your questions and comments relevant to the topic of the discussion forum. Communication that does not address the topic of the forum and or that intended for an individual or small group of individuals should be e-mailed to those people directly.
- Do not write messages in all capital letters. This is considered SHOUTING.
- All discussions should be written in full sentences

ADVISING SERVICES

Edison State's career pathway advisors are your partners in success. A career pathway advisor is the first advisor that you will meet with once you have made the decision to further your education. Together, you and your career pathway advisor will:

- Identify the right academic major to set you on your desired career path.
- Identify the courses you'll need to accomplish your academic goals.
- Help you develop a student plan tailored to your lifestyle and work schedule.

- Prepare you to navigate your first semester at Edison State.

You can find your career pathway advisor and faculty advisor information, including their email address, by logging into MyESCC and clicking on Student Planning. Go to Plan and Schedule and click on the Advising tab. You may also call 937-778-7850 to connect via phone call.

BOOKSTORE SERVICES

eCampus is Edison State's official bookstore and is located on the Edison State webpage, under "Resources," "Bookstore," or at <https://edisonohio.ecampus.com>. You can also access eCampus from the ESCC home page, under "Campus Services." Through eCampus, you can rent or buy books, access course materials, or purchase ESCC merchandise.

CAREER AND JOB SERVICES

Our Career and Job Services advisors are dedicated to helping students and alumni advance their professional development as they make career decisions, develop job search strategies, pursue experiential opportunities and secure employment. Career and Job Services also provides career assessments, career information, resume and cover letter help, job postings and resources, tips for interviewing and more. Visit <https://www.edisonohio.edu/Career-and-Job-Services/> for more information.

COMPUTERS

If you are working on campus, computers with internet access are available in the internet café. The Library and Tutoring Center has computers and printers available for your use.

HEALTH AND WELLNESS SERVICES

Health and Wellness Services are available on the Edison State Piqua campus. The program is dedicated to providing resources that promote healthy lifestyle choices for our students, faculty and staff and is managed by the Human Resources department.

LIBRARY SERVICES

The Edison State library is not only a comfortable place to study, we have an expansive collection of online resources available to help you with your research. Check out the library webpage here: <https://www.edisonohio.edu/Library/>.
